The reader who has never heard Mr. RANDALL repeat his tariff credo, nor read one of his tariff speeches, will be interested in comparing his utterances with those of the platform adopted by

"The necessary reduction in taxa-tion can and must be effected without depriving American labor of the ability compete successfully with foreign labor, and without imposing lower rates of cuties than will be ample to cover eny increased cost of production which may exist in consequence of the higher rates of wages prevailing in this country. * * The Democratic party is pledged to revise the tariff in a spirit of fairness to all interests. But that existed twenty years ago. in making reductions in taxes it is not proposed to injure any domestic indus-tries, but rather to promote their healthy growth. From the foundation of this Government taxes collected at that any change of law must be at every step regardful of the labor and capital thus involved. The process of re-form must be subject in the execution to this plain dictate of justice."

That language does not seem to be at all ambiguous. Mr. RANDALL explains his position as follows, and it appears to us to be a correct exposition of the tariff plank of the Chicago platform. In his Nashville speech of December

"By this equalization [the equalization of wagesalluded to in the platform] money invested in manufactures in this country will not be injured, and the labor of the United States will be saved from the degrading level pauper labor."

closes with a sentence so complimentary to us that we cannot pursue the subject. It says:

"Still we do not desire to bring any charges against the Dispatch, nor did we mean to involve it in any contro-

I wish to say that the moment we resolve to collect our reve-nues through the agency of the tariff that moment you secure such levying of duty upon foreign produce as will bring no injury to those engaged in producing the same article in the United States. * * The platform [of 1884] enunciated no new doctrine. It was maintained by Mr. Madison, it was maintained by Mr. Jefferson, by General Jackson, and by James K. Polk."

North Carolina's Confederate Dead

North Carolina is moving in regard to erecting a monument to the memory of her 40,000 Confederate dead. The $ 1 00 papers have taken hold of the matter with great carnestness, and their editorial advocacy of it is being supplemented by strong letters from other citizens, One gentleman offers to contribute $1,000 to the monument if it shall be erected at Raleigh, or $2,500 if it shall be placed at Durham. The movement is one that every true man should rejoice to see take practical shape. No State made a more glorious record in the late war than North Carolina. Her name appears in imperishable letters in the story of every battle from Bethel to Appomattox. And the conument should be of a design and character that would typify especially what was known as the staying qualitics of the North Carolinians. We suspect that Mr. POWDERLY will, when he reads the following paragraph, SEY quotes what was said the other day in like manner take Mr. WATTERby Colonel A. C. tive Volcano in North America.

An El Paso (Tex.) special says: A correspondent of a New York paper has just returned from the scene of the only active volcano in North America. The trip was one of extraordinary hard ship, accomplished in the face of ob-stacles of which the entire absence of any road, an arid desert of over 100 iles across, and the blazing sun of a ropical zone were conspicuous features. The volcano lies twelve miles from Bavispe, in the State of Sonora, n the extreme northwest corner of the Mexican republic. The correspondent From Bavispe we had our first sight of our objective point—the volcano. A pennant of smoke, trailed by the wind from a low, square-topped peak to the southwest, defined its location, while a full and muttering roar, almost incessant, told that the forces of nature were at work. The volcano lies about twelve miles from the site of the town, but over such an extraordinary tract of country that we realized at once that it would require two days journey to reach it, and pushed straight ahead "For, see you, the exclusion of for-eign workingmen from the United had been observed at Bavispe increased in volume as we approached the mountain. FALSE STORIES OF STARVATION. In the early spring some highly colored stories were published in northern papers about starvation in Rockingham county. The people were represented as being in a deplorable condition. The facts are that some of the people were greatly depressed and took a too gloomy view of matters, which soon righted themselves. There was no suffering and no need for fear of any such thing. The worthy sheriff even wrote that the taxes could not be coured, and there was talk of sending deputation to the Governor to urge m to secure a delay in the payment the other extreme. People are as happy as they were depressed, and the crops are the best in a lifetime. The sheriff has collected his taxes, and all the talk is of good times. In truth the talk is of good times. In truth there never was the least fear of any starvation in Pockingham or in any other county in North Carolina, and such stories must always be discounted.

THE AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE. The people here certainly feel great cleasure in the knowledge that work is to begin at once on the Agricultural Interest in it is spreading all the time, and it will be a popular institution no doubt—a vital point in these times. Mr. Primrose, the president of the Board of Trustees, says everything will be done in a perfectly practical manner, yet quickly and well. Work on the ground will be begun next week. The plans for the buildings will be prepared in a few weeks, but no time will be lost, as material will be delivered

THE SPLENDID CROPS Governor Scales had a long converation with your correspondent yesterisy about the crops and kindred topics. He rejoices at the condition of affairs, and speaks of the necessity for a proper view of agriculture. Whatever may e said about other industries, farming State, he says. This year affords a practical illustration of the fact. A year ago people were depressed. The crops were poor. This year the crops are far better than any since the war, and the people are full of hope. This feeling is the under-current which runs through all business. Another pleasant feature is that the farmers worked harder, incurred less expense, and used far less of commercial fertilizers and and of the success which has attended honest effort. It is this kind of a

He wishes it to be erected in | naphtha gas to the Capitol Square, and to be worthy of whose honor it ought to be raised. makes the first offer of a contribution towards the monument. He expresses his desire to give $1,000. If the people of the State will act instead of talk ing the funds for the monument can be quickly raised. North Carolina is be-hind in these matters. There is not enough public spirit on a cash basis.

CURRENT NEWS. Fifty thousand people are expected here at the State Fair next October, at the reunion of North Carolinians who have made their homes in other States. A newspaper is to be established at Burlington, it is learned.

One of the Republican newspapers is disgusted at the law which requires the Governor to appoint magistrates to supply the piaces of those appointed by the Legislature who failed to qualify, and advises Republican clerks of the superior courts to refuse to qualify such appointees. That is strange advice from an editor supposed to be a lawabiding citizen, and fitly shows the length to which Republicans will go. A cotton-factory is to be built at San-ford, Moore county. Pittsboro's railway has had the happy effect of causing that good old town to grow, and a great deal of building is n progress.

By the middle of next month work will begin on the Lynchburg and Dur-bam road at both ends. A ten-mile section at each end will be located by that time. The Cape-Fear and Yadkin-Valley railway is having a survey made for an extension of its line from Bennettsville to Camden, S. C., a distance of sixty The Norfolk and Western road building a line to Hillsville, Va., and will extend it to the North Carolina

ine, to a point five miles from Mount

Airy. The Cape-Fear and Yadkin-Valley railroad will build that five miles and make the connection.

Governor Scales has abandoned his projected trip to the sounds and fish-eries with Lieutenant Francis Winslow in the Scoresby. Associate-Justice Davis, of the Supreme Court, was to have accompanied him. They will go later. After abandoning this trip they intended to visit Morehead, but Mr Davis's ankle (sprained last spring) gives him such annovance that he is unable to travel. Governor Scales went to Greensboro' to-day to join his family.

Fayetteville's business-men have perfected all a rangements for building the first tobacco-factory in that now progressive town.

The weatherwise predict an early frost. The beat now all over the State is intense. It is doing crops no in jury, bowever. Corn will in a few days need rain.

[Correspondence of the Richmond Dispatch.] REIDSVILLE, N. C., July 15, 1887. Mr. A. H. Motley, Jr., and mothe Mr. A. H. Motley, Jr., and mother came near having a serious accident Wednesday. They were in the factory, on the fifth floor, and boarded the steam elevator to descend. An employé in the mean time had disconnected the belts and breaks attached to oil them, and when the elevator, which was also loaded heavily with tobacco, was released it rushed with frightful velocity down through four floors to the celfar beneath. Although severely shocked neither occupant was seriously hurt,

SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON B. AND O. Collision of Express Trains at Gaithersburg-Several Passengers Intured.

day says : A terrific collision occurred this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Metropolitan branch of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad at Gaithersburg, this county, about five and a half miles from this place, between the east- and the west-bound express trains. The engine of the east-bound train was completely demolished, and one coach of the west-bound was thrown down an embankment on its side and considerably damaged. The west-bound engine had its cylinder torn off. The collision was caused by the air-brakes of the west-bound train refusing to work properly. When the west-bound train reached Gaithersburg it ran upon the switch to wait for the east-bound, which usually passes it there. The air-brakes failed to work, and the westbound train ran through the switch on to the single track and was run into by the coming east-bound train. The east-bound train is one of the fastest trains on the read and was running at a high rate of speed. The accident octrack recently finished, and at a sharp curve beyond the station, within the corporate limits. The train hands, strange to say, escaped injury.

Both trains were well filled with passengers. The west-bound contained many ladies, all of whom were more or less slaken up, but none scriously injured. A PLOW AT NAPHTHA GAS. its Manufacture Prohibited as Injurious to Health.

A Middletown (N. Y.) special says The general term of the Supreme Court of the second department, in session at Poughkeepsie, has just handed down a decision affirming the verdict of the lower court in a novel and important case relating to the manufacture of lluminating gas from naphtha. The decision becomes of grave public in-terest when it is considered that the streets of many small cities and villages throughout the country, together with public institutions, hotels, factories, and private residences innumerable, are lighted by gas made in whole or in part from naphtha, which material affords a cheaper illuminant than can e obtained from coal.

Margaret Bohen, whose dwelling adoins the manufacturing plant of the Port-Jervis Gaslight Company, brought suit in the Supreme Court of Orange county against the company to recover lamages for alleged injuries to the health and comfort of herself and family and for the depreciation of the value of real estate caused by the noxious fumes exhaled in the process of manufacturing illuminating gas from naphmore of home-made manures. So they that On trial of the cause at the May ter of fact, that the plaintiff had suffered injuries by the noxious fames and rases complained of, and the jury asessed the damages at $340, whereupon Judge Cullen, who was on the bench on motion of plaintiff sattorney, granted an injunction restraining the company from continuing the manufacture of naphtha gas to the detriment of the the Capitol Square, and to be worthy of plaintiff. The defendant subsequently the State and of the dead heroes in obtained a stay of the injunction on appeal by giving bonds to answer all The idea of having such a monument is a new one. Mr. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, always first in good works, carried to the higher tribunal for the adjudication of issues of far-reaching public concern. Should the Court of Appeals uphold the decision of the wer courts the practical effect will be to probibit the manufacture on a large cale of the cheapest form of illumi nating gas now known within th bounds of towns or other thickly-in habited localities

Heroes and Heroines.

There are few who endure bodily troubles without complaint, Did you ever meet among the heroes or heroines of your acquaintance—if any such there have been—one with a yellowish cast of countenance and that jaundiced espect generally, which the most unpracticed eye recognizes as the product of a disordered liver, who did not complain, and pervishly, too, of the soreness of the rocal-citrant organs, of pains beneath the right-shoulder-blade, of dyspeptic symptoms, constipation, and headache? Of course you never did, and of course the individual was not using liestetter's Stomach Bitters, or he would not so have looked—so have complained. To purify the blood when contaminated with bile, and conduct the secretion into its proper channel, to re-establish regularity of the bowels, bandsh billous headache, and remove impediments to complete digestion, nothing can approach in efficacy this peerless alterative and tonic. Malariai complaints, always involving the liver and kidney and bladder inactivity, are remedied by it. It is a capital appetizer.
